1. References above outline the difficulties regarding receipt of household effects, now being encountered by Mr. Charles S. Jennings and Miss Ruth A. Oviatt, two FBID employees recently transferred to the London Bureau.

2. Inasmuch as shipments of household effects of FBID employees transferred to the London Bureau will be of frequent occurrence, it is believed highly advisable to establish a policy in this matter. It is also urgently necessary to secure the immediate release of subject household effects without cost to the employees concerned.

3. It is therefore requested that the British Foreign Office be approached through State Department channels and requested to:

a. Release the household effects of the above named FBID employees immediately without payment of customs duty or purchase tax.

b. Establish a policy whereby such charges will not be levied in the case of future FBID transferees to the London Bureau.
